

R&D TAX CREDIT CLAIM PREPARATION SERVICE

for

Manufacturing and High Tech Companies

Canada has one of the best Research and Development tax incentives in the world. If you or your company produces a product or uses a process that has been improved at some cost to you, or you are combining technology in new ways, or you are doing early stage research and development in Canada then you may qualify for Scientific Research and Experimental Development (SR&ED) tax incentives. Most manufacturing and high technology companies perform research and development to some degree.

The Federal Government and the Government of BC recognize and encourage innovation by refunding up to 40% of your qualified development costs.

Technology Brewing Corporation can assist you in planning your Research and Development activities to optimize the benefit from these incentives.

Technology Brewing Corporation provides a preliminary assessment of the claim potential for your company free of charge. Given a positive assessment we can offer the following services:

- Assemble the appropriate documentation in support of your claim.
- Prepare the technical descriptions for the SR&ED claim.
- Prepare with the support of your accountant financial reports for the SR&ED claim.
- Manage the claim process on your behalf.

Technology Brewing Corporation can help you clear the hurdles and return product and process development costs directly to your bottom line.

For more information call:

Mike Boudreau, P.Eng.
Phone: 250-833-5647
Email: mike.boudreau@techbrew.com

“This program is intended to encourage businesses -- particularly small and start-up firms -- to conduct SR&ED that will lead to new, improved, or technologically advanced products or processes. “